Ballet Russe
OPENS TONIGHT AT LANIAKEA

Costumes and dancers are all in readiness for the opening performance of the Ballet Russe at the Laniakea theater this evening. There is more than a flutter of excitement among the local maids and matrons who are to take part in the production, which is to be gorgeous in color and amazing in spectacular effect. It is the most elaborate affair in the way of a dancing entertainment than any which has been given in Honolulu for many years, and the bevy of pretty girls has spent many hours in perfecting their parts in the two ballets.

It was a bit of pure luck that Ivan Bankoff made Honolulu a stopping place on his way to tour the Orient. He is one of the foremost solo dancers of the Russian school, and it is his desire to see new lands which led him to Honolulu.

Charles Margels, who is his manager, is the man who brought "Civilization" to Honolulu last spring, and when he informed his acquaintances here that he had with him a dancer so renowned as Bankoff they urged him to give a program with Miss Aimee Maynard, who accompanied the party, as his partner.

The first performance, which will be given tonight, will have the pantomime ballet of "Scheherazade" for its main feature. A riot of color and splendor, it carries a story of more than usual dramatic interest.

Wonderful costumes of every combination of colors known to Bakst or any other color master have been especially made for the society belles who take part in the presentation. Miss Florence Butler, as Scheherazade, is a figure of magnificence, while Donald Blanding as the sultan's brother are fitting complements.

The solo parts will be taken by Ivan Bankoff and Miss Aimee Maynard. Miss Maynard is a charming Australian girl who has won triumphs for her graceful and esthetic solo work in London and New York. She is the slave girl in "Scheherazade," and has several dances with Bankoff in the second part of the program.

All in all, something unusual awaits those who are planning to attend the Laniakea theater on any of the next four nights. "Scheherazade" and a number of shorter dances will be given tonight and tomorrow night, while the "Lake of the Swan" and different solo numbers will follow it on Friday and Saturday nights. The house is entirely sold out for the opening night and more than half sold for the remainder of the performances. Tickets are on sale at Laniakea. The rear half of the theater now has the seats raised in tiers, and the view of the stage is perfect from every part of the house.

Mrs. Emily Hyams of Natchitoches, La., aged 103, registered for active war work. She is engaged in Red Cross activities.

KEENAN IS SEEN IN NEW ROLES

Rarely has Frank Keenan, popular film actor, given such an interesting and impressive characterization as in the current Bijou offering, "The Crab" which has made a pleasing impression on this week's audiences. In this picture Keenan, playing the role of a weakened man of age, whose crustiness of heart and mind is emphasized by his loneliness, gives an animated version of incarnate meanness and tyranny, the way for which is paved by wealth and domination of an entire community.

The old man of power and autocrat by virtue of his position in the affairs of the town so grinds down the villagers that he wins their undying hatred and contempt.

The film gives emphasis to the old saying that "a child shall lead them" when a young girl cast adrift by her relatives comes into his life when she accidentally enters his home to earn her keep. His brutality takes on a keen edge toward her and finally the villagers casting aside their fear in the interests of humanity hale the old man before the court. But the girl seeking to win him through love betrays him and her stand wins his freedom.

Her action brings the light to his heart; his serried soul is changed and where hate ruled love enters and conquers his enmity towards mankind.

The pretty tale of love and devotion is enhanced by stirring action and noteworthy scenes.

POPULAR STAR
BACK AT HAWAII

The new bill which opens at the Hawaii theater today sees the return to Honolulu of popular Genevieve Hamper, the talented Fox star whose appearance here in "The Spider and the Fly," "The Green-Eyed Monster" and other productions won her a secure place in the esteem of lovers of high dramatic talent. Miss Hamper, who is the wife of Robert Mantell, the noted Shakespearean actor, and who played opposite her in "The Spider and the Fly," is best remembered here for her wonderful portrayal of Queen Blanche in that production. As the Spider she lured into her net many flies, leaving in her wake domestic chaos and sorrow. In the present offering, "The Neglected Wife," Miss Hamper has an equally difficult part to handle, one that brings forth all her powers as an actress of emotional roles.

New developments in the story of "The Neglected Wife," the serial, are found in the third chapter of the tale included in the program. The weekly news pictures round out the program.

PICTURE SCENE STARTS TANGLE

The moving picture play that became celebrated some months ago as the cause of an international tangle and as such was a leading feature of the news of the day is the one that is now appearing at the Liberty theater. The play is "The Jaguar's Claws" in which the Japanese actor, Sessue Hayakawa playing the leading part and when the trouble arose it became an important factor in the Mexican situation.

The picture was made in Mexico. The Lasky company rented a whole town for one of the scenes from the local jeffs who had neglected to appraise the populace of what was to happen. It followed naturally enough that terror seized the people one fine morning when a band of a hundred-odd yelling cowboys with crashing revolvers swooped down on the town. The people believed that the dreadful invasion of the gringos had become a fact. Frantic messages wired to Mexico City were followed by instant demands that brought the gravest concern to Washington officials who until the explanation was made could only view the event as an outbreak on the part of some independent unit of angered Texans. It was days before the trouble was at length adjusted.

WHERE WAS THE BAND WHEN LIGHTS WENT OUT?

After attempting to play three pieces of music at Thomas Square last night and being interrupted on every occasion by the electric lights blinking out in the middle of each piece, the members of the Hawaiian band "lit out" and the music lovers who sat patiently through the third blanket of darkness found when the lights went on again that the musicians had vanished into thin air. The band was halfway through the first number when the lights went out. Not having memorized the piece, Bandmaster Baker stopped the music. The lights came on again and the next number opened. Again halfway through, the lights went out, and the playing stopped. Once more the lights came on and once more the band opened up. Halfway through and, blink—the lights went out again and the music stopped. And when the lights finally did flare up there was no band. Leader Baker is said to have passed the word around to the boys to "light out" without playing "lights out."
